REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Private diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs.

Horrible Diseases.

Thousands of persons, both male and female, who are suffering out a miserable existence, the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus in their systems. Look at their pallid, emaciated faces and their broken-down constitutions, unfitting them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation they will find relief ... the scene. Let parents ... attend to those who are suffering with this horrible life-destroying malady ... and cured before it be too late. Send immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made this his especial study for years and who has the most inveterate cases without mercury or drugs. [DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO AUGUST 21.

Congress at its last session, proposed amendments to the Constitution enlarging in some very important particulars the authority of the General Government and that of the several States and reducing by indirect disfranchisement the representation of States in which slavery formerly existed and it is claimed that these amendments may be made valid as parts of the original Constitution without the concurrence of the States most seriously affected by them, or may be imposed upon those States by three-fourths of the remaining States as conditions of their re-admission to representation in Congress and in the electoral college. It is the unquestionable right of the people of the United States to make such changes in the Constitution as they, upon due deliberation, may deem expedient but we insist that they shall be made in the mode which the Constitution itself points in consistency with the letter and spirit of that instrument, and with the principles of self government and of equal rights which lie at the base of our Republican Government. We deny the right of Congress to make these changes in the fundamental law without the concurrence of three-fourths of all the States, including especially those to be the most seriously affected by them or to impose them upon States or people as conditions of representation or of admission to any of the rights ... or obligations which belong under the Constitution to all the States alike, and with still greater emphasis do we deny the right of any portion of the States excluding the rest of the States from any share in their councils, to propose or sanction changes in the Constitution which may affect permanently their political relations and control or revise the legitimate action of the several members of the common Union. Such exercise of power is simply usurpation, just as unwarrantable when exercised by the Northern States as it would be if exercised by the Southern States, and not to be fortified or palliated by anything in the past history by either of those on whom it is attempted or of those upon whose rights and liberties it is to affect. It finds no warrant in the Constitution. It is at war with the fundamental principles of our form of Government. If tolerated in one instance it becomes the precedent for future invasion of liberty and Constitutional rights, depending solely upon the will of the party in power ... of power and thus leads by direct necessary sequence, to the most fatal and intolerable of all tyrannies; the tyranny of shifting and irresponsible political factions. It is against this, the most formidable of all dangers which menace the stability of free government, that the Constitution was intended most carefully to prevent. We demand strict and steadfast adherence to its provisions. In this, and in this alone can we find a basis of permanent union, and peace. But it is alleged in justification of the usurpation which we condemn, that the condition of the Southern States and people is not such as renders safe their ... to share in the government of the country, that they are disloyal in sentiment and purpose; that neither the honor, credit nor interests of the nation would be safe if they were admitted to share in its councils. We might reply at the first, that we have no right for such reasons to deny any portion of the States or the people the rights expressly conferred upon them by the Constitution of the United States. Second, that so long as their acts are those of loyalty, so long as they conform in all their public conduct to the requirements of the Constitution and laws, we have no right to exact from them conformity in their sentiments and opinions to our own. Third, that we have no right to distrust the purpose of the ability of the people of the Union to protect and defend under all contingencies and by whatever means that may be required for its honor and its welfare. These would, in our judgment, be full and conclusive answers to the pleas thus advanced for the exclusion of the States from the Union, but we say, farther, that this plea rests upon a complete misapprehension or an unjust perversion of existing facts. We do not hesitate to affirm that there is no section of the country where the Constitution and laws of the United States find more prompt and strict obedience than in those States and among those people who were lately in arms against them, or where there is less purpose or less danger of any future attempt to overthrow their authority. It would seem to be both natural and inevitable, that in the States and sections so recently swept by the whirlwind of war, where all ordinary modes and methods of industry have been broken up, and the bonds and influences that guarantee social order have ... when thousands and tens of thousands of the virulent spirits have been ... from the discipline of war, and thrown without resources or restraint upon a disorganized and chaotic society, and where the defeat is a ... to the overthrow of ambition and hope, scenes of violence should defy, for a time, perfect discipline of law and excite anew the fears and forebodings of the patriot and well disposed. It is unquestionably true that local disturbances of this kind, ... by more or less violence, do still occur, but they are confined entirely to the cities and the large towns of the Southern States, where different races and interests are brought closely in contact, and the passions and resentments are always most easily fed and ... into outbreaks. They are quite as much the fruit of untimely and heated political agitation as of any hostility on the part of the people to the authority of the National Government. But the concurrent testimony of those best acquainted with the condition of society and the state of public sentiment in the South, including that of its representatives in this Convention, and ... the fact that the great mass of the Southern people accept with as full and ample ... as the people of other States, the re-established supremacy of the National authority and ... in the most loyal spirit and with a zeal quickened alike by their interest and their pride, to co-operate with other States and sections in whatever may be necessary to defend the rights, to maintain the ... and the welfare of our common country. History affords no instance where a people so powerful in numbers, resources and public spirit after a war so long in its duration, so destructive in its progress and so adverse in its issue, have accepted defeat and its consequences with so much good faith as has marked the conduct of the people lately in insurrection against the United States. Beyond all question this has been largely due to the wise ... with which their enforced surrender was accepted by the President of the United States and the Generals in immediate command of their armies, and to the liberal measures which were afterward taken to restore order, tranquility and law to the States where all had for ... time been overthrown. No steps could have been better calculated to command the respect, win the confidence, revive the patriotism, and secure the permanent and affectionate allegiance of the people of the South to the Constitution, than those which have been solemnly taken and so steadfastly persevered in by the President of the United States. The people of the South are to-day more cordial in their allegiance than they were immediately upon the close of the war. We believe it is due to the ... of the legislative department of the General Government, and the action by which Congress has endeavored to supplant and defeat the President's wise and beneficent policy of reconstruction, to their exclusion from all participation in our common Government; to the withdrawal from them of the rights conferred and granted them by the Constitution, and to the evident purpose of Congress in the exclusion of usurpation and unlawful authority, to reduce them from the rank of free and equal members of a Republic of States with rights and dignities unimpaired, to the condition of conquered provinces and conquered people in all things subordinate and subject to the will of their conquerors. Free only to obey laws in the making of which they are not allowed to share. No people has ever yet existed whose loyalty and faith such treatment, long continued, would not alienate and impair, and the ten millions of Americans who live in the South would be unworthy citizens of a free ... degenerate sons of a heroic ancestry, unfit ever to become the guardians of the rights and liberties bequeathed to us by the fathers and founders of the Republic if they could accept with uncomplaining submissiveness the humiliation thus sought to be imposed upon them. Resentment of injustice is always and every where essential to freedom, and the spirit which prompts the States and people, lately in insurrection but insurgent now no longer, to protest against the imposition of unjust and degrading conditions, makes them all the more worthy to share in the government of a free commonwealth and gives still firmer assurances of the future power and freedom of the republic. For whatever responsibility the Southern people may have incurred in ... the authority of the National Government and in taking up arms for its overthrow they may be held to answer as individuals before the judicial tribunals of the land, and for that conduct as societies and organized communities they have already paid the most fearful penalties that can fall on offending States, in the losses, the suffering and humiliation of unsuccessful war. But whatever may be the guilt or the punishment of the conscious authors of the insurrection, candor and common justice demand the ... that the great mass of those who became involved in its responsibilities, acted upon what they deemed to be their duty in defense of what they had been taught to believe their rights under a compulsion physical and moral, which they were powerless to resist, nor can it be ... to remember that terrible as have been the bereavements and losses of this war, they have fallen exclusively upon neither section and upon neither party, that they have fallen with far great or weight upon those with whom the war began that in the death of relatives and friends, the dispossession of families, the disruption of social systems and societies, the overthrow of governments, of laws, order, the destruction of property and the means of industry the loss of political, commercial and moral influence in every shape and form which great calamities can assume the States and people which engaged in the war against the Government of the United States have suffered ten fold more than those who remained in allegiance to its constitution and laws. These considerations may not, as they certainly do not, justify the action of the people of the insurgent States, but no just or generous mind will refuse to them a considerable weight in determining the line of conduct which the Government of the United States should pursue toward them, if not with alacrity certainly without sullen resentment, the defeat and overthrow they have sustained they acknowledge and acquiesce in the results to themselves and the country which that defeat involves. They no longer claim for any State the right to secede from the Union. They no longer assert for any State an allegiance paramount to that which is due to the General Government. They have accepted the destruction of slavery, abolished it by their State constitutions and concurred with the States and people of the whole Union in prohibiting its existence forever upon the soil or within the jurisdiction of the United States. They evince the purpose just as fast as may be possible and safe, to adopt their domestic laws to the changed condition of their society and to secure by laws and its tribunals equal and impartial justice to all classes of their inhabitants. They admit the invalidity of all acts of resistance to the national authority and of all debts incurred in attempting its overthrow. They avow their willingness to share the burdens and discharge all duties and obligations which rest on them in common with other States in other sections of the Union, and avow through their representatives in this Congress and by all their public conduct in every way and by most solemn acts by which States and societies can pledge their faith their engagement to bear true faith and allegiance through all time to come to the Constitution of the United States and to all laws that may be made in pursuance thereof. Fellow countrymen, we call upon you in full reliance upon your intelligence and your patriotism to accept with generous and ungrudging confidence this full surrender on the part of those lately in arms against your authority and to share with them the honor and renown which await those who bring back peace and comfort to the jarring States.

The close of the rebellion with all of its ... and disasters has opened a new era of glory to the nation it has saved. It has swept away the hostilities of sentiment and interest which were standing menaces to its peace. It has destroyed the institution of slavery, always a cause of sectional agitation and strife. It has opened for our country the way to unity of interest, principle and action, through all time to come. It has developed in both sections a military capacity for achievements of war both by sea and land before unknown even to ourselves, and maintains to the exercise hereafter under a united country an important influence upon the character and destiny of the continent and world, and while it has thus revealed, disciplined and compacted our powers, it has proved to us beyond controversy or doubt by the course pursued towards both the contending sections, by foreign powers, that we must be the guardians of our own independence that the principles of republican freedom we represent can find among the nations of the earth no friends or defenders but ourselves. We call upon you therefore by every consideration of your own dignity and safety, in the name of liberty throughout the world to complete the work of restoration and peace which the President of the United States has so well begun and which the policy adopted and the principles asserted by the present Congress alone obstruct. The time is close at hand when members of the next Congress are to be elected. If that Congress shall perpetuate this policy and by excluding loyal States and people from representation in its halls, shall continue the usurpation by which the legislative powers of the Government are now exercised, ... prudence compels us to anticipate augmented discontents, a sullen withdrawal from the duties and obligations of the Federal Government, internal dissensions and general collisions of sentiments and pretensions, which may renew in a still fearful shape the civil war from which we have just emerged. We call upon you to interpose your power to prevent the occurrence of so transcendent a calamity. We call upon you in every Congressional district in every State to secure the election of members who, whatever other differences may characterize their political action, will all unite in ... the right of every State of the Union to representation in Congress, and who will admit to seats in either branch every loyal representative from every State in allegiance to the Government, who may be found by each house in the exercise of the power conferred upon it by the Constitution, to have been duly elected, returned and qualified for a seat there. When this shall have been done the Government will have been restored to its integrity, the Constitution will have been re-established in its ... the American Union will have again become what it was intended by those who formed it to be—a sovereign nation, composed of separate States, each, like itself moving in a distinct and independent sphere and exercising powers already defined and ruled by a common Constitution, resting upon the assent, the confidence and the co-operation of all the States and all the people, subject to its authority. Thus reorganized and restored to their constitutional relations, the States and the General Government can cooperate in a fraternal spirit with a common purpose and a common interest upon whatever affects the security of permanent rights and the enlargement of popular liberty and the perfection of our republican institutions may demand.

A Proclamation by the President.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The President has issued a proclamation reciting the former proclamations and acts or resolutions of Congress, in a form nearly similar to the peace proclamation of April 2d, and concluding as follows: And whereas, subsequently to the 2d day of April, insurrection in the State of Texas has been completely and everywhere ... and ... and completely established in said State, and now remains undisturbed and undisputed; and such of the proper officers as have been duly commissioned within the limits of the State are now in undisturbed exercise of their official functions; and whereas the laws can now be enforced in the said State of Texas by the said State and the people of the State of Texas and the people of the other States are well and loyally disposed and have conformed or will conform in their future legislation to the condition of affairs growing out of the amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting slavery within the limits of said States and their jurisdictions; and whereas all the reasons and conclusions set forth in regard to the several States therein specially named, apply equally and in all respects to the people of Texas as well as to the other States which have been involved in insurrection; and whereas, adequate provision has been made by military orders to enforce the ... of acts of Congress and the civil authority, and to ... the civil laws of the United States in Texas, in case resort to military force for such purpose should at any time become necessary, Now therefore, I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do proclaim and declare that the insurrection which heretofore existed in Texas at an end, and ... to be ... regarded in that State as in the other States before named, ... whereas insurrection was proclaimed to be at an end by the proclamation of April 2, 1866, and I do further proclaim that said insurrection is at an end, and that peace, order and tranquility and civil authority exist throughout the whole of the United States of America.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington the 20th day of August, 1866, and of the Independence of the United States of America the ninety-first.

By the President: ANDREW JOHNSON.

WM. H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

Meeting of Army Officers.

A meeting of army officers favorable to the President's policy was held at Willard's Hotel yesterday, Gen. Steedman presiding. It was decided to call a National Mass Convention of soldiers at Chicago, on the 7th of September, to ratify the ... of the Philadelphia Convention.

The President's Trip to Chicago.

The President's programme for a visit to Chicago to attend the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the Douglas monument, is fully arranged. He will leave Washington on the morning of the 28th of August, attended only by Seward and a ... company, in the car used for the Lincoln funeral train. He will stop at Philadelphia, New York, Albany, Auburn, Niagara Falls, and at Buffalo over Sunday, on Monday, Cleveland and Detroit, and arrive at Chicago on Wednesday ... Sept ... 5th.

The corner stone of the Douglas monument will be laid September 6th, with great ceremonies. An address will be delivered by Gen. Dix, and speeches will be made by the President and Seward. The President will remain at Chicago two days. He will probably visit Wisconsin and return home via St. Louis, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Columbus and Pittsburg. Gen. McCallum has charge of transportation, and Chadwick, of Willard's Hotel, will be commissary at all points named. The President and Seward will probably make speeches, and time will be allowed at all important way stations for short addresses. The only ladies of the party will be of the President and Seward's families.

Forthcoming Opinion of the Attorney General.

Gen. Stanbery has nearly completed an elaborate opinion on the authority of the President to appoint to office, during the recess of Congress, persons who have been rejected by the Senate. The point has been raised to contest the President's authority in this respect. The Attorney General will show, in an exhaustive argument, that both the law and practice of the founders of the Government affirm ... of the prerogative.

Ships Sent to the Mexican ...

WASHINGTON, August 20.—In accordance with the President's proclamation of the 19th, declaring null and void Maximilian's paper blockade of Matamoras and other Mexican ports south of the Rio Grande, the commander of the Pacific squadron has received orders to send two ships to Mazatlan and Guaymas, to protect United States interests on the Pacific coast.

The Radicals to be Removed from Office.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The President has received many of the State delegations to the presentation, all of whom tender congratulatory addresses, and some had done with recommendations of changes in office. To the New Hampshire delegation he said there should be a clean sweep off the Radical office holders. The Missouri delegation made a formal recommendation of General Frank Blair as Secretary of War, and asked the President for some direct assurance that the loyal men in Missouri should be protected at the ballot box against the illegal measures adopted by the Radical State Government. The President said Gen. Hancock, commanding the Department of Missouri, would give every possible assistance within the legitimate sphere of his duties and said: "I think you will find the protection of the Government, as far as compatible awarded to you." The air is again filled with numerous rumors of a pending change in the War Department. This much is certain, that the Philadelphia delegations have very generally demanded that Mr. Stanton shall leave the Cabinet. Frank P. Blair and Gen. Steedman are named for his successor.

Monetary.

NEW YORK, Aug 20.—The Evening Commerce of money article says the week opens without any decided change in the aspect of the money market. The gold market continues heavy. The stock market opens without much activity. The bank statement shows an increase in loans of $3½ millions; decrease of specie, $578,000; an increase in deposits of $78,000, and a decrease of legal legal tenders of $2,000,000.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 22, 1866.

Twin Cherries on one Stem.

Oregon is not altogether a stranger to the quality of statesmanship which emanates from the Presidential Mansion at Washington. The people of this State know a great deal more about the character who exhibits himself there, than most others do, for the simple reason that his exact counterpart, not many years ago, was on public exhibition here. Many and many a time have audiences in this State listened to speeches, of which the last address at the White House is a very exact echo. Shallow demagoguery reveals itself, always and everywhere, in the same manner and by the same tokens. The speeches of Jo. Lane and Andrew Johnson are alike because the characters of the two men are alike. The similarity does not end with a mere resemblance in a few points only, but makes the two characters commode in almost every particular. Were Lane in Johnson's place he would make just such speeches as Johnson does. From every stump in Oregon just such harangues (with a little necessary change to accord with circumstances) have been heard as that which was listened to at the White House the other day by the Committee of the lacquey Convention. It is difficult to decide which of these men—Johnson or Lane—can excel the other in the use of the pitiably disgusting arts which the low demagogue always employs. In the performances of both there is the same insufferable egotism; the same ... professions of entire devotion to the people; the same platitudes about standing on the Constitution; the same twaddle about the rights and liberties of the people being in danger; the same sickening self-praise in regard to personal sacrifices and sufferings in behalf of popular liberty; the same vainglorious boasting in regard to "my" achievements; the same evident contempt for the intelligence of the people at large; the same immodesty in recounting what "I" have done, how "I" have earned the eternal gratitude of the people, how "I" have been their principal defender, how "I" have resisted all encroachments on their liberties, and how "I" am now their most earnest and faithful champion. All this is the staple of the last Presidential speech; and all this did the people of Oregon hear some years ago from Jo. Lane. The resemblance is perfect. But the Oregon demagogue will have to crawl out of his retirement and bestir himself, and that at once, or be compelled to yield to the Tenn... the palm which he used to bear alone.

Johnson's oratory is evidently improving. His last performance abounds in beauties which for many reasons entitle it to be called his masterpiece. The orator happily hit upon a favorite subject,—himself; and inspired thereby proceeded at great length and with splendid effect, exploring his subject more carefully than even he had ever done before, and presenting it in fuller detail, and in a clearer light than he had done on any former occasion. The opportunity was a rare one; it might never be repeated; and the orator rising to the great hight of the occasion threw his whole soul into the subject. And what a result! It was a grand triumph for the singular pronoun of the first person.

Every admirer of the President will be charmed with this address. They will behold in it new proofs of that miraculous statesmanship which has created the grand "policy" that reconciles the South by giving up to her rebellious people the fruits of a dearly bought national victory. They will regard Johnson's numerous egotisms as so many "Mosaics" set with unusual grace in the body of the speech. They will see everything in it to laud and nothing to condemn. That enlightened party which regards the Jo. Lane style of statesmanship with wonder and love and veneration, will take fresh courage. The prospect will cheer them. They never expected to see this sort of statesmanship revived anywhere; least of all, at the White House. The Oregon Democrats in particular will rejoice beyond measure to see the tactics of Jo. Lane used with such distinguished effect by Andrew Johnson.

Making Capital of Dead Men.

The dispatches give us a synopsis of Johnson's programme for making political capital out of the bones of the dead Douglas. The tour of the Northern States is to be made. The apostate proposes to desecrate the car in which the remains of the murdered Lincoln was conveyed from Washington, prostituting it to the uses of a gang of politicians and convivialists upon an electioneering tour. If the bones of the dead can ever creak and rattle and groan at their own profanation this will be an occasion to call them into such an exercise. Whatever view may be taken of Johnson's course as the Chief Executive of the nation, the act of thus ...ing upon the tender memories which cluster round the names of the patriots Lincoln and Douglas, to convert them to the uses of Andrew Johnson, in the character of a mere politician, must sink him a thousand times lower in the estimation of the friends of those great and good men, than anything the shameless apostate has ever yet done. It cannot be concealed that this tour of the President and Seward has for its object to further the prospects of Johnson for a re-nomination in 1868. What else can mean the wide detour by way of Baltimore, New York, Niagara and Buffalo? What else can mean the visit to Wisconsin, St. Louis, and the great cities of the West? If he were going simply to do honor to the dead Douglas whom he opposed with all his vehemence in 1860, why does he surround himself with all the accompaniments of a triumphal tour—a quartermaster of transportation, a commissary of supplies, and preparations for addresses at all the wayside stations? Does he propose to talk of his friend Douglas, or his murdered ...or, at all the "wayside stations?" The event will prove that "I" and "my policy" will be the staple of his talk at these "wayside stations," and will intrude themselves even into his "speech" at the foot of the monument. Had he been the friend of Douglas, or did he now follow the footsteps of Lincoln, all this pageantry in honor of their memories would have been well enough. But when we know that he opposed Douglas at a time when his support would have been worth something; when we know that he has surrendered himself soul and body into the hands of the men through whose agency Lincoln was most basely murdered; and when we know that he only seizes upon this occasion to warp the affections of the people for the illustrious dead, to his own political advancement, we can think of no terms which sufficiently express the detestation of the demagogue and apostate, in which all true friends of either Lincoln or Douglas must forever hold Andrew Johnson.

The editor of the Walla Walla Statesman reports that he has conversed with a distinguished army officer of high rank, and that the said officer reports that all the Generals of the late war support the President's "policy." We answer, not quite. There are Logan and Howard, and Palmer, and Geary, and Barlow, and Hawley, and Sickles, and Terry, and scores of others, including Grant himself, who do not support the President in his opposition to the people and the proposed constitutional amendment. Query: Isn't "the distinguished officer" whom the Statesman alludes to, the same who has promised to be on hand at Salem three weeks hence with patronage, including appointments, money &c., to dispense judiciously so as to re-elect Nesmith to the United States Senate?

STATE ITEMS.

The Statesman learns that A. C. R. Shaw has resigned the Superintendency of the Penitentiary.

Our correspondent at the Dalles writes: The weather is "orful hot" here and everything is mealy baked.

The Dalles public school will open next Monday, the 27th, under the auspices of Prof. J. D. Robb, assisted by M... Julia Johnson, Annie Pentland and Mollie Snyder.

A telegram from Salem yesterday, 21st, says: The reported returns of the election held yesterday in Polk county for State Senator, give a Democratic majority of 36, showing a Democratic increase of 44 over the vote for Union Congressman at the late State election.

A party of gentlemen and ladies, as we learn from the Statesman, came near being drowned at Salem last Thursday evening, while out pleasure seeking in a small boat. The boat sprung a leak and was rapidly filling, when parties on shore, learning the situation, went out and rescued them.

D. W. Craig, late owner of a controlling interest in the Salem Statesman, has sold out to "other parties," and a bran new editor has mounted the tripod. He "cordially approves" the action of the Philadelphia Convention. The names of the editor and the purchasing parties are not divulged.

We learn that on Saturday week a man named George Saling came to the Grand Ronde Reservation with liquor on his person, contrary to law, when he was arrested by the Agent there, Mr. Harvey, a ball and chain attached to his leg, kept until Monday morning, when he was brought to Dallas and bound over to appear at the Circuit Court for trial. So says the Statesman.

A young man named John White was drowned at the Dalles, last Sunday evening, under circumstances as follows: White and another man got into a scuffle on board of the wood boat Cayuse, about a bucket of water. During the scuffle, White fell overboard and all attempts to ... him proved futile. His body had not been recovered up to Monday evening. White was in the employ of the O. S. N. Co. He has an uncle, it is said, living near Eugene City, and other relatives in Illinois.

FROM WALLA WALLA.

The Walla Walla Statesman of the 17th, has the following:

NAVIGATION ABOUT TO CLOSE.

The Snake river is said to be running very low, and it is thought that navigation to Lewiston will be closed in about ten days.

VERY WARM WEATHER.

The weather during the week has been uncomfortably warm, the mercury marking upwards of 90° above zero during the afternoon of each day, in the shade. On Thursday it went up to 103°.

WALLA WALLA FRUIT.

Walla Walla apples and plums are now being sold in the market. One or two more years, at most, will bring this country up to Oregon's high standard of big red apple advancement.

BUSINESS MATTERS AT WALLULA.

A letter from Wallula says:

Wallula is full of goods for Blackfoot, which are being rapidly hurried away on pack trains. Quite a number of pack trains have left, and a large number are now "putting up cargo," among which are the trains of Messrs. Wm. Ford, Perry Kent, Frank Johnson, Pat Mahony and John Hern, besides others I do not know the owners of.

Six hundred and fifty head of cattle passed through Wallula last Saturday, for Cariboo, British Columbia, having been driven all the way from Marysville, Cal.

Since the passage through our section of country of the Military "tycoon" I notice Government has been very active, pushing forward supplies to the outposts. The Government warehouse at this point is unable to hold all the goods for B... Notwithstanding a constant stream of goods is going out, the large (upper) warehouse of the O. S. N. Co. has been rented by Government.

The O. S. N. Co.'s arrangement of steamers is bringing a large amount of freight to this point—the Yakima and Owyhee to and from Celilo, and the Spray from here to Lewiston.

GEN. STEEL AT WALLA WALLA.

A salute was fired at sunset, on Thursday evening, in honor of the arrival of General Steel, Commander of this military department. It is understood that Gen. S. is here for the purpose of deciding whether Fort Walla Walla shall be continued as a military post.

"Harvesting."

Under this head, in Friday's issue of the Oregonian, the local editor makes some pertinent remarks about labor-saving machines, from which we quote the following:

"The latest invention that has come to our knowledge is that of a self-raking machine, which we witnessed on trial yesterday in this city. Attached to a Kirby reaper the simple little thing, which consists of a revolving table, about fifteen inches in diameter, three wooden fingers and a rake of uniform length, say three feet, all under the control of the driver, by placing his foot upon an iron strap, raked into bundles all the grain that the machine cut as it moved along. This model was sent to Captain Hopkins, agent for this State for the sale of the Kirby, and other agricultural implements, from California, being the only one on the coast, for the purpose of giving it a trial for the satisfaction of people here who are interested in such inventions. The trial in California elicited great attention, and that the model may be on exhibition at the Fair at Sacramento next month, he will return it to San Francisco next steamer, hoping to get it back for exhibition at the State Fair at Salem in October. The ground on which the trial was made yesterday is very rough and uneven, and the crop of oats being harvested was very light, which rendered the exhibition less effective, but as all could see, who witnessed the operation, it is most assuredly a very desirable article, one which every farmer ought to have. The action of the Kirby reaper was as satisfactory as any one could desire."

We give the above for the purpose of calling attention to this valuable auxiliary in the harvest field, and also for the purpose of correcting a slight mistake in ... to its "being the only one on the coast." One of these machines is now in ... operation in this county. It was "set up," and commenced "cutting and raking" grain on one of the farms of Mr. G. B. Smith, near this place, last week. We also mention this fact at this time, so that the "Captain" need not be at the trouble and expense of "getting back" this machine from California for the Oregon State Fair in October.

We are sorry, for sake of the reputation of this excellent ..., that the "Captain" should have placed it upon trial in Portland, where the "ground is so very rough and uneven," and the "oats so very light." To appreciate the true merits and capabilities of this machine, you should see it in "operation" in some of the "plentiful fields of "HEAVY oats" in Benton Co.—Corvallis Gazette.

We would say to our ... of the Corvallis Gazette that the "Kirby" ... alluded to in the OREGONIAN of the 10th was one that was sent to the "Capt." from San Francisco by Messrs. Treadwell & Co., who are the sole agents for the famous "Kirby" for the whole Pacific coast, and the "Capt." is their agent here; and that said machine had been recently sent to Treadwell & Co., by ... from D. M. Osborne & Co., Auburn, N. Y., the manufacturers, and that said machine has a new style self-rake and reel ... which is the last and latest invention of a self-rake for the "Kirby."

Mr. Omar Jewell, traveling agent for Treadwell & Co., has just returned from the upper country, where he has been exhibiting the "Kirby" to good advantage, and is considerably ... and pleased to see the Corvallis friends of the "Kirby" so enthusiastic in defense of their new old style self-rake, which is really a good one, and probably the best in use until the ... one was invented. And he wishes us to say to the friends of the Kirby at Corvallis to take their self-raking "Kirby" to the Oregon State Fair in October next, and if it is so that he can he will have the new one there too, and thinks they will be able to show to the satisfaction of many farmers that the "Kirby" is a superior machine, both as a mower as well as a reaper.

A Card.

Madame D'Ormy ... that under the mistake of announcing a ball, which ought never to have appeared in the programme, the attendance on Monday evening at her concert, was highly flattering; and she begs the ladies and gentlemen of this city to accept her grateful acknowledgments. To the music dealers of Portland, she deems herself under great obligations, and begs them to believe that she feels very grateful. On leaving San Francisco, she ... that if she gave an entertainment, and obtained the use of a Bradbury piano, she would notice it according to its merits; and she feels pleasure in adding, that the one performed upon on Monday evening, was of the same superior character as any played by her in New York, and all she has used on the Pacific coast, from Bradbury's celebrated house, through the agent, W. Kohler, of San Francisco. Mr. Grub was unremitting in his exertions, and well deserves this public ... of her thanks. Miss Olga Grub made a very ... debut, and for herself and the young female amateur, who also appeared, she anticipates a rich harvest of musical ... The second and last concert will take place on M...day evening next.

Military Order.—The following is General Halleck's General Order No. 22, dated Aug 9th

I. Authority has been given by the Secretary of War to recruit one of the new regiments of regular cavalry on the Pacific coast The organization will be the same as that of the old regiments, except that the office of Company ... Sergeant is abolished, and each company is to be composed of sixty-four (64) privates. The pay and allowances are the same in all the cavalry regiments.

II. Brevet Brigadier-General W Sewell is detailed as ... of Recruiting Service for this regiment in the Department of California, and Colonel G. A. H. ... 1st U. S. Cavalry, as Superintendent for the Department of the Columbia. The Presidio, San Francisco, ... and Fort Vancouver, W T, will be the general depots ... for recruits.

The Commanding Generals of the Departments of California and the Columbia will detail on recruiting service all available officers and non-commissioned officers of whatever arm of service in their respective commands and designate the several recruiting stations to be opened All other recruiting will cease for the present and officers now recruiting for other regiments will recruit only for this new regiment of cavalry

III. As soon as a sufficient number of recruits is raised in either Military Department to form a company they will be organized as such by the appointment of non-commissioned officers and the fact reported to these head quarters for the assignment of officers and designation of station

IV. The officers of this new regiment will be appointed by the President and assigned by the Secretary of War

V. The most favorable opportunity is now offered to the discharged volunteers to re-enter the service for duty on this coast

☞ The following was handed to us by Friedman & Co, Agents here for Tilton & McFarland's Safes

PORTLAND ME. July 12th, 1866.
Messrs. Tilton & McFarland
110 Sudbury Street, Boston

Dear Sir—We take great pleasure in informing you that the BURGLAR PROOF SAFE we purchased of you, came out of the conflagration of the 4th and 5th insts., with its contents entirely uninjured

The Safe was exposed to an intense heat caused by the burning of a large quantity of sugar, and we consider suffered as severe a test as could well be devised for it It contained a large quantity of valuable securities, which, as we have said, were entirely uninjured.

We shall wish you to make us another Safe on some future occasion Yours truly,
J B BROWN & SONS.

PORTLAND, July 12, 1866.
Messrs. Tilton & McFarland,
110 Sudbury Street, Boston,

Gentlemen—We are happy to inform you that the Safes we purchased of you a few months since, proved all your Agent recommended them to be Our office was in Messrs J. B. Brown & Sons' building, on Commercial Street, which we had full of sugars, all of which was consumed

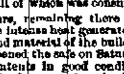

Both Safes fell into the cellars, remaining there some forty-four hours, subject to the intense heat generated by so large an amount of sugar and material of the building, which was very large We opened the safe on Saturday, the 7th inst., and found the contents in good condition Some papers were injured in the drawers also the bindings of the books, but every word and figure in them is perfect The Burglar-Proof Safe, we think, can be repaired, but the large Fire-Proof is too much injured and we shall soon give you an order for a new one, which we hope if tested will prove as valuable as those we have already tried CHURCHILL, BROWNS & MANSON

Our Agent at Portland, Me., under date of July 15th, states that he has the certificates of 17 different firms, who had our Safes in use, the contents of which came out fully ...ted.

S T.—1860.—X.
Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating torpid liver, constipation &c, deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

PLANTATION BITTERS,
Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect They are exceedingly agreeable perfectly pure, and must supercede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required
They purify strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation
They cure Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache
They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St Croix rum For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle
Beware of impostors Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U S Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in Bulk is an impostor Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U S Law, and will be so prosecuted by us We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles &c who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen merchants, &c., is incredible The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

J M Botts' Speech, July 4th

The following are extracts from this noble speech delivered at Baltimore

THE NEW PARTY

In the present condition of things there is to be a great effort made to get up a new party, and a Convention is called to meet in Philadelphia some time next month, I believe It is an embarrassing question for me to know not as Webster said, where I am to go, but how I am to vote No it is not an embarrassing question That was a slip of the tongue I shall have no embarrassment about it I shall vote for the unconditional Union party of this nation [Immense applause] There may be a great deal of radicalism in it, but I never saw a party in which there was no radicalism. I do not object to a little radicalism Radicalism is sometimes a little too fast, and conservatism is sometimes a little too slow But you have a medium between the two that will regulate it

TWO PARTIES—THE UNION AND THE REBEL

I am not to abandon those who agree with me on this great question of the restoration of this Union because there are radicals in the party, and when, if I do not go with them, I have to go with another party where there is more radical ism and a more obnoxious radicalism than I find in the great Union party Of all radicalism that which is the most obnoxious to me is the radical ism of Democracy And I will vote with any party, I do not care who or what it is, to beat it down and to keep it down. Much as I suffered, and much as we all suffered in this war, I would, so help me God, ten times over rather go through another rebellion than to see that party restored, and to see the great war carried on by the United States, the hundreds of thousands of lives that have been lost, and the millions and tens of millions of money that has been expended, all go for nothing to restore that party who alone are responsible for all this Get up another party! There can be but two parties in the Union, and one is a loyal party and the other is a disloyal party He who does not vote with the loyal party must vote with the disloyal, and vote to bring the rebels and copperheads into power again I know what the object of this party is for they attempt ed to initiate me into it "What party do you propose to raise,' I inquired, "to bring up the old Democratic party, the rebels and copperheads into power again?" "Oh, no, not at all, not at all," "What do you mean to do? Out of what element do you propose to raise this party?" "Why, the old fashioned Jackson Democracy." "The old fashioned Jackson Democracy? "Why I have heard that much-hackneyed phrase of playing the play of Hamlet with the part of Hamlet left out, but if ever it was aptly applied it is when you propose to raise a Democratic party and leave all the Democratic party out. And if you leave out the rebels of the South and the copperheads of the North, the rotunda of the Capitol will hold them all three times over If you do not vote with the loyal party, you are obligated to vote to bring that disloyal party back into power, and I am opposed to all parties and all measures that are calculated to bring about such an end."

PUNISHMENT OF REBELS.

Why not pass that law? Why, some gentleman say, this would get up a tremendous howl about State rights. Are you to be scared by the cry of State rights? But they will be asked what power have you to prescribe conditions for State officers? What power have you under the Constitution to keep one of those men out of the houses of Congress? The necessity which has arisen from the rebellion. They have deprived themselves of these rights, and you have a right to impose what conditions you see proper before they shall again participate in the administration of the Government What did they do with me and all Union men in the Convention of Virginia? In the month of July, 1861, the Virginia Convention passed an ordinance to the following effect

That any citizen of Virginia holding office under the Government of the United States after the 31st of July, 1861, should be forever banished from the State and be declared an alien enemy Also, that any citizen of Virginia hereafter undertaking to represent the State of Virginia in the Congress of the United States, should, in addition to the above penalties, be considered guilty of treason, and his property be liable to confiscation A provision w... ...ping from the penalties of the Act all officers of the United States ... after July 1st, 1862

And they would make me an alien to-morrow if they had the power. Do they complain of me when they make this warfare upon me that I should turn upon them and give blow for blow, and endeavor to deprive them of the power of trampling me into the earth? That was the ordinance of the Convention. If I was an alien to that Government because I was loyal to the Constitution of my country, why are they not aliens for being disloyal? And why, when you pronounce them aliens and fix conditions upon which they shall come into power, why should they complain? You have the same power to do that that you have to keep them out at all from Congress You have the power to carry it by a two-thirds vote.

I want to make a remark in regard to that utterance of Johnson, when he said ... were guilty of treason He told the truth when he said that. "I say there is ... them that does not know that ... treason There is no man among them who honestly, fairly and squarely believes that he was authorised to go into rebellion against the United States, and I will give the proof of it If they ... they were justified by the Constitution, and that they could maintain themselves before ... of this country, why did they go up to Washington with trembling limbs, "with 'bated breath and whispering humbleness," and ask for pardon for conforming to the Constitution of the United States? If they acted in conformity with the Constitution of the United States, which of them ... have so debased himself as to ask to be pardoned for obeying the Constitution? The very fact that they do ask for pardon is an acknowledgment that they did what they had no right to do. Is there one of them that has not asked for ... and by asking for pardon ... guilt? I believe Wise, the ... has refused to ask for a pardon, and is traveling over the country like ... begging for God's sake that some one will tread on the tail of his coat. He wants to make a martyr of himself I suppose the ... they do not take Wise is because they know he would be acquitted on the ground of insanity I have said to you all that I think the time and the occasion and the circumstances justify or render necessary. I have given you my views of political matters and of the political condition of the country at some length You have listened to me with marked attention, from which I may flatter myself that I have made some impression upon you as to the true condition of the country. We will go to the polls, and we will take care to see that, so far as our votes can control it, no man enters the public councils of the nation, or of any State of this Union who is not thoroughly and unconditionally loyal to the United States.

At a late grand gathering of the soldiers of Illinois General Logan ... a notable speech, whereof the following is an extract. It will be seen that he is not enthusiastic in his support of "my policy."

Would you have believed ... years ago, when a certain ... man of this land said that treason must be made odious, and traitors must be punished, and ... but that they must be impoverished, and that their property must be distributed among the loyal people, that he would declare that they were entitled to representation in the United States? [No] If he did, he had a very strange way of expressing himself That is all I can say on that subject. [Laughter] No, sir, the work of restoration in this country belongs to loyal men, and not to traitors, and while loyal men are engaged in performing this work and restoring this country, they must say to those traitors "Gentlemen, we intend to confer these rights upon you whenever we are minded to: It is not for you to say the time when it shall be done, but it is for us to say It is in our hands, in our power We have the right, and you have no privileges in this country [Good, good That's so] The only acts that they can perform are such acts as we recognize as being lawful by our recognition The acts that we say to them they shall not perform, they cannot perform until we say they shall

THE MAGNANIMITY OF REBELDOM.—The rebel delegates to the Philadelphia Convention most magnanimously offer to let bygones be bygones and are ready to resume the government of the country, and forgive all the past! They have a precedent in the reported travels of the illustrious "Pickwick." That great man, speaking of the soldiers in Rochester, and some other English cities, says 'Nothing can exceed their good humor It was but the day before my arrival that one of them had been most grossly insulted in the house of a publican The barmaid had positively refused to draw him any more liquor, in return for which, he had (merely in playful ness) drawn his bayonet, and wounded the girl in the shoulder And yet this fine fellow was the very first to go down to the house the next morn ing, and express his readiness to overlook the matter, and forget what had occurred!'

The estate of Gen Cass is valued at $1,000 000. His will has been proved. There is a $500 stamp on the probate

Jeff Davis at Fortress Monroe

THE CRAVEN BOOK

RICHMOND, July 11 —Although he has never said so in so many words he has said enough to show that he has read the work with decided impatience and indignation He thinks it a gross breach of confidence in the first place, for Dr Craven to have written any book about him at all, and all the information he pretends to give was derived from the confidential and generally considered sacred relation of physician and patient Having written a book under these circumstances Davis thinks he was doubly bound to adhere strictly to truth Generally, Davis denies the accuracy of every reported conversation in the book, but as throwing light upon his thoughts and feelings I specify a few of the points he made

He grew most indignant, perhaps, over the fact that Craven put into his mouth on several occasions the expression, "me and my people," which he says he never used at any time or upon any occasion, the form of words used when he had occasion to refer to himself and the Southern people being, 'me and our people" In commenting upon this point Davis remarked that whatever he might have been he had never been egotistical, and he grew somewhat eloquent over the meekness and humility that had always marked his conduct

Davis repudiates in toto the Craven account of the menacing scene declaring the mock heroic speeches Craven represents to have been made on both sides never to have been uttered His account is to the effect that when the file of soldiers entered his room and the Sergeant had stated in a few direct words the business upon which they had come, he (Davis) quietly and briefly said that he must resent it to the extent of his power as an insult to "me and our people" With the view only of entering this forcible protest, and with no intent of engaging in a childish struggle with the soldiers he struck at the man nearest him, when the soldiers brought their arms promptly to the position of "Charge bayonets" Sergeant ——, however, instantly ordered 'Shoulder arms," and had the prisoner seized and placed upon the bed When there, Davis struggled for a moment with the same intent but only for a moment, and then submitted without remark to what he knew he could not avoid The Sergeant (who was the only "officer" present), Davis says, performed his duty just as a soldier would do, made no excuse for it, and did not plead orders. In short, all the details of this scene in the Craven book, including the exclamation by Davis, "Oh, the shame! oh, the shame!" upon which the changes have been rung so incessantly by Southern newspapers, are, upon the authority of the prisoner himself, merely figments of the Doctor's imagination

Davis is particularly indignant over the fact that he is made to indorse General Hunter as a "Christian and a patriot," and he says truly enough that it would have been grotesquely inconsistent for him to have done anything of the kind, after having, as President of the Confederacy, put Hunter under the ban as a robber Hunter was a fanatic, and he gave as his reason for the opinion that he had on two occasions, some years ago, attended Hunter in a duel, and that both times, when all was in readiness for the word to be given, Hunter knelt down and prayed, rising and firing at the word

Miscellaneous Items

An exchange says there are seven Johnson men in Rochester, formerly Republicans, four of whom are office-holders, and three are applicants. Rochester has 60,000 inhabitants

The Chicago Times admits that Andrew Johnson is not much of a Moses but thinks he makes a capital Noah. A very apt comparison, for his friends have had to "cover his nakedness" more than once.

Rich gold discoveries are reported in the Chestatee and its tributary creeks in Georgia. In four days, recently, 560 dwts. of pure gold were taken from one mine, and at another place 4 000 dwts were taken out in a day and a night by two persons.

Governor Brownlow has telegraphed to Mr. McPherson, Clerk of the House of Representatives, that the Constitutional Amendment has been regularly ratified by both branches of the legislature of Tennessee, and that the official announcement would be transmitted to Secretary Seward without delay.

Columbus, Ohio, is in a bad way The City Council is composed of an equal number of Democrats and Republicans, and every man of each faith stands so firm that no organization can be effected for the purpose of pay ordinances Meanwhile, creditors of the city are suing it and attaching all the city property they can find. The Mayor and Chief of Police are also at loggerheads, and pay no regard to each others requirements

Intelligence from Europe is of a character to confirm the fears of the loss of the emigrant ship Monarch The vessel left Liverpool on the 20th of March, having on board 759 souls, of whom about 700 were emigrants She was bound to the port of New York, but hopes were entertained that we should yet hear of her having put back, and reached some European port That hope is now vanished, for the English papers tell us that pieces of wreck have been for some weeks floating ashore on some parts of the coast of Ireland, and that not long since a whale boat, quite similar to one carried by the missing ship, had floated ashore near Dingle, together with several bodies. There had also been picked up among the wreckage on the shore, a small wooden label, similar to those used by emigrants on their trunks, and bearing the initials of a passenger known to have been on board of the Monarch The English owners of the ship have given her up

In the Senate, July 20th, Mr. Poland introduced a bill to prevent Courts from being used as instruments of persecution against loyal persons, which was referred to the Comittee on the Judiciary It provides that in any action of tort to person or property done between April 13, 1861, and July 1, 1865, it shall be lawful to plead or give in evidence in bar of said action—First, that at the time when the wrong was committed the plaintiff was disloyal to the Government of the United States; second, that the plaintiff was engaged in insurrection and rebellion against the United States, third, that the plaintiff aided and comforted and sympathized with the rebels and insurgents against the Government of the United States, fourth, that the plaintiff applied for or obtained pardon from the President relieving him from the penalties of treason. The establishment of either point shall be a good defence

Being satisfied from observation and experience, as well as medical testimony, that ardent spirits, as a drink, is hurtful and needless," etc., etc.—Johnson, 1865

His 22d of February experience was so recent, we are bound to admit the force of his statement without regard to the medical testimony On almost any other matter we might require corroborative proofs —Flag
